About This Recovery Home

Pearl Sober House is sober living for men in Springfield, Massachusetts, an 11-bed house on Pearl Street in a walkable area close to a market, a park and a school zone. Baystate Medical Center on Chestnut Street is about eight minutes away on foot, a CVS on State Street about the same, and the bus station on Frank B. Murray Street roughly a ten-minute walk. Cars go in a closed-off back driveway or on the street. Laundry is in the basement, and the kitchen is fully equipped. Recovery Housing Initiative describes Pearl as structured but also independent: men are held to respect and accountability while giving themselves some grace. Cameras are placed in the house for residents' safety, and the operator stays closely involved with support. The weekly house meeting time is set by the operator and shared at move-in; curfew is 10pm on weeknights and 11pm on weekends. Other Springfield options from the same operator are Matt's Place Sober House and Prospect Men's Home for men, along with Rose Sober House for women.

Home Leadership & Certification

Pearl Sober House is operated by Recovery Housing Initiative, a structured recovery housing operator providing safe, supportive sober living homes for people in early recovery from substance use disorders. Pearl Sober House operates to the standards of The Vanderburgh Foundation.

Pearl Sober House — Springfield, MA

Vanderburgh SOBER LIVING

Life in the House

Pearl is a peer-led house for eleven men in Springfield, and every room is shared, so living alongside other people is part of the deal from the first night. Guests split the chores and plan meals together, and the house expects honesty and consistency from everyone. The street is walkable, with a market and a park close by, which makes it easy to get out of the house and into a routine.

New guests join a weekly house meeting; the operator gives the day and time at move-in. Curfew is 10 PM on weekdays and 11 PM on weekends. A House Mentor lives in the home and helps newer guests settle in, and drug and alcohol screening is random.

What the Structure Looks Like

- Shared rooms only, so housemates are part of daily life from the start
- A 10 PM weekday curfew, moving to 11 PM on weekends
- A five-minute walk to BHN, on Liberty Street
- Meal planning together, along with a share of the chores
- Weekly house meetings, with the time set by the operator
- A House Mentor in residence, plus random screening
